

728 AIR MOBILITY SQUADRON

MISSION

The 728th AMS consists of three flights: maintenance, aerial port, and air mobility command and control center. The unit provides strategic, theater and contract commercial air mobility support to Europe, Africa and Southwest Central Asia.

The maintenance flight provides maintenance and supply support for all Air Mobility Command military aircraft missions and commercial contracted aircraft supporting AMC missions.

The aerial port flight is responsible for transportation-related functions to include freight, fleet, air transportation operations center and the passenger terminal.

The command and control center directs the operation of airlift support aircraft entering and departing Incirlik.
