

782 TRAINING GROUP

MISSION

The 782nd Training Group is responsible for the technical and military training of US, international military, and civilian DoD personnel annually in over 153 initial and advanced resident and mobile training team active courses in aircraft systems maintenance, fighter and bomber avionics maintenance, telecommunications, fuels, vehicle operations, and civil engineer career fields.

The 782nd Training Group is the most diversified group in AETC, with courses in seven distinctly different career fields in our four training squadrons. The 364th Training Squadron is responsible for the Aircraft Systems and Telecommunications Training Flights; the 365th Training Squadron has the ATE, Combat Avionics and Flight Line Training Flights; the 366th Training Squadron includes Electrical, Fuels, Mechanical Training Flights, Detachments 3, 6, and 7; the 367th Training Support Squadron is responsible for the Media Production and Interactive Courseware Flights. We boast one of the best educated workforces in the world with 94% of Enlisted Instructors holding at least a 2 year college degree.

EMBLEM

Per bend Or and Azure, three lightning flashes conjoined per bend issuant from dexter chief throughout Argent, Gules and Yellow, between in chief three fleurs-de-lis Blue, two and one, and in base eleven mullets in bend of the first, six and five, all within a diminished bordure of the like. Attached below the shield, a White scroll edged with a narrow Yellow border and inscribed "782D TRAINING GROUP" in Blue letters. SIGNIFICANCE: Ultramarine blue and Air Force yellow are the Air Force colors. Blue alludes to the sky, the primary theater of Air Force operations. Yellow refers to the sun and the excellence required of Air Force personnel. The conjoined lightning bolts represent the three parts of the Air Defense Team and, together, symbolize aerial striking power. The colors of the lightning flash denote the colors of the Wing's three original squadrons. The fleurs-de-lis reflect the three distinguished unit citations which the Wing has received. The eleven stars signify the battle honors awarded to the Wing for World War II service.
