EMBLEM

On a sable disc, a gray crescent moon is positioned at dexter. An ultramarine azure parachute reinforced with argent seams using Air Force or lightning bolts as risers is positioned adjacent to the moon at sinister. A dagger with an or hilt is suspended from the parachute by the hilt an is surmounted over the moon from sinister to dexter base. The disc is bordered with gules. An sable scroll is attached above and below the disc. The scrolls are also bordered with gules. The scroll above bears the unit's designation, 919th Operations Support Squadron. The one below is inscribed with the squadron's motto, Reserve Commandos. Significance Ultramarine blue and Air Force yellow are used in the design. Blue represents the sky, the primary theater of Air Force operations. Yellow signifies the sun and the excellence required of Air Force personnel. The gray crescent moon against the black background represents the night environment and special operations conducted by the unit. An ultramarine blue parachute shows the aerial delivery support provided to the flying squadrons of the wing. Lightning bolts used as parachute risers alludes to the communications and intelligence support provided to the wing. The dagger suspended from the parachute signifies the unit's association and commitment to its gaining command. (Approved, 14 Jan 1999)
